The percentage of the population that is overweight or obese is rising in the WHO European Region. Variations exist between countries and across gender.